

Cookie Policy

What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small data files that are placed on your device when you visit a website. Most websites use cookies to improve how the site works.

Cookies are created when your browser loads a website. The website sends information to your browser, which then stores a small file on your device.

Cookies can remain on your device for different periods of time, from just your browsing session to several months.

When you return to the website, cookies allow it to recognise your device and improve your experience.

How We Use Cookies

We use cookies to:

- Remember your preferences and settings
